DEFARTMENT OF GENEALCGY.

It has been considered advisable to involuce a regular department of genealogy into the magazine, in which the history as well as the incombership of the families treated will be given, and the abstracts of the Virginia land patents will be continued, with full genealogical notes.

Two years ago we had 4.84 volumes of the publications of the Virginia Historial Society, beginning with the letters of soverior Nelson, published in 1814. These columes, at the current prices charged or them, would be worth about $22,000, at, at a valuation reduced more than all, the society should eventually reserve not less than $10,000 for their investment in them.

Since our last annual meeting a complete catalogue of books, newspapers and amphiets has been made and arranged inhabetically, according to the card system.

pleie catalogue of books, newspapers and pamphlets has been made and arranged alphabetically, according to the card system.

As was reported at the last annual meeting, the society had tendered the mee of the rooms to the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities, to the Society of the Colonial Dames of America, and to the Old Dominion Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. These organizations have from time to time held their meetings in the rooms of the Historical Society, and we have been gratified by the interest that the ladies have taken in the objects of our society and their appreciation of its usefulness, which they have practically illustrated, not only by the presentation to the society last year of $902.50 in cash, but they now offer to furnish the upper rooms of our building, and have made an appropriation for that purpose, which will be expended under the direction of accommittee composed of representatives of these societies and of this. They further offer us for our reading rooms the leading periodicals and managines of the day.

For several months past your committee have caused the rooms of the society to be kept open from $4$. M. until 10:20 P. M. After $5$. P. THE HAND OF DEATH, Since our last meeting among the names which have, by the hand of death, been stricken from our rolls, are those of Dr. C. G. Harney, one of the oldest life members of the society, whose services in preserving our library during the war were specially acknowledged in our last annual report; the Hon. R. C. Winthrop, of Boston, an honorary member, full of honors as of years—a cordial friend of Virginia—with the consciousness of having faithfully served his State in his day and generation, has departed as one "who wraps the drapery of his couch about him and lies down to pleasant dreams." A stronk link between Massachusetts and Virginia has been broken, which we may in vain look to see replaced.

Bif upon our own circle has the greet leveler laid his resistless hand, and, loving a shining mark, he has stricken down in the perfection of his manhood, in the fullness of his usefulness, our associate on this committee, Frank H. McGuire. The untimely death of this "loyal and tree-hearted" Virginian and zealous member of this society has been lamented by many, but by none more than ourselves.

Your committee are of the opinion that a great sphere of usefulness lies before the society; that no argumnt is needed to convince even the most thoughtless of the value of experience as a teacher; that President Lyon G. Tyley, of William and Mary College, delivered an interesting address on "Elections in Virginia in the Colonial Feriod," slowing the methods of election and the phases of political principles and practices of that day. The paner was highly interesting and a thorough treatise of the subject.

Rev. Dr. Richardson discussed the subject, and told several interesting reminiscenses of the days of freehold voters.

On motion of Mr. Hutzler, a vote of thanks was returned to Mr. Tyler for his eloquent and interesting address.

At the close of the meeting the president invited those present to inspect the very valuable manuscripts and books left to the scelegy by the heirs of the late Corway Robinson and other interesting decrements.

These precons relies were brought forth from the iron safe, where the most valuable records are carefully kept, and were examined with deep interest by those present.

STILL DISCUSSING

PROF. BOATWRIGHT'S ELECTION CREATES FURTHER COMMENT.

Dr. Byland Answers Mr. Sand's Letter-A Peacemaker Has a Word of Advice. Rumore That Students Will Leave.

The recent election of Prof. F. W. Boatwright to the presidency of Richmond College seems to be a subject of considerable comment still, and various opinions are being expressed by those interested in the matter. The recent demonstrations by the students of the institution on one side or the other brought out a great deal of criticism, and this part of the affair has been widely discussed. At is expected that the students will be called together and warned by the chairman of the faculty to retrain from any demon-sirations pro or con in future. It is stated that the leaders of the movements strations pro or con in fluture. It is stated that the leaders of the movements in the way of demonstrations will be reprimended by the chairman of the reprimended by the chairman of the faculty.

The rumors to the effect that several of the professors of the institution will resign their position by reason of the action of the trustees cannot be verified from anything the professors say. They are not inclined to discuss the matter, and the least conservative of them state that this is no time to discuss the question for publication, and that even if they should resign their positions they would not take such action until the end of the sension, as their duty at present its towards the classes under their respective charges.

The rumor that one particular one of the professors will resign, however, has been more pointedly emphasized, and it is not at all unikely that this will be done at the end of the session.

MUST NOT BE DICTATID TO.

One of the mombers of the Board of Trustees with whom I recently talked, and who was a member of the committee that recommended the election of Professor Boalwright to the office of president, said that the board was in no position to be dictated to at present. They had done the pest they could for the interests and welfare of the institution, and had labored under many difficulties. He stated that the family of the college had found more or less difficulty in electing their chairman up to a few years and, and the trustees had accordingly relieved them of that tank. He was of the opinion that the election of Professor Hoatwright was a wise movement, and would produce excellent results.

Hon. J. L. M. Curry, the president of the Board of Trustees, like the members of the faculty, is not inclined to discuss the instite for publication, though it is well known that Dr. Curry is strongly in sympathy with the new movement, and believes that the president-elect has all the qualities to make him the proper man for the place. Certainly the new president does not lack for supporters. Many of the leading Baptsis of the city have not been slow to endorse him. As the matter now stands there seems to have arisen a controversy on the part of a number of outsiders, as well as some of those closely identified with the interests of the college, as to whether or not the trustees should have taken such action. MUST NOT BE DICTATID TO. SAY THEY WILL LEAVE COLLEGE,

One of the representative students of the college told me that he had heard a number of his fellow-students say that they would not return to college next

"Yours truly, L. M. CURRY."

As to some of the points raised by you, I recall that they were fully answered in the board meeting; others I regard as entirely irrelevant to the object of my first official communication and have no bearing upon it.

I suppose you merely wished to give these matters out, with no expectation that I would reply to them. And now, my dear sir, as all sides have been heard and our loved and honored "Big Four" vindicated, "let us have peace."

PNDORSING PROFESSOR BOATWRIGHT,

The following communication was received by The Times last night:

"Baltimore, Md. Dec. 16, 1804,
"Editor Times: I noticed in a communication from Richmond, that the election of Professor Boartwright to the presidency of the college gave dissatisfaction to the students and some of the faculty. Having known the young man in question ever since he was a boy, and knowing how devoted he is to the interests of the dear old college. I am greatly surprised that such should be the case. The Sun quotes Professor Harris as saying very bitter things about our talented young professor's election. They complain of his youth. Ever since this tried old world first began its rotation, have not the old men placed their mantles on young shoulders? When men grow old and gray in a cause, let them step aside, and let the young men infuse fresh zeal and strength into the work they have 'grown old' in. Let the professor be appreciated and rewarded for the several years of devotion he has given grand old Richmond College. One who knows him well can testify that he would willingly shed his heart's blood for the good of that institution.

"RICHMONDER."
